Yesterday, Dwyer testified that he had taken more than $200 in cash and jewelry from the clothing of Mrs. Littlefield as he drove the bodies through New England, New York and New Jersey.

A hitherto undisclosed 17-page statement, laboriously penned in prison by Dwyer to describe what he called "the fundamentals of this catastrophe," was read into the record. It described Carroll as a "terrible drinker" who had im-proper relations with his daughter Barbara when she was 12 or 13 years old.

W. R. Davis, New York Financier, Tells What He Paid and Where Petroleum Was Sold.

REPLIES TO ADVERSE REPORTS CURRENT

He Declares It Will Take Year and Cost $6,000,-000 to Modernize Mexican Refineries.

Special to the Post-Dispaten.

MEXICO, D. F., Aug. 5.—W. R.
Davis, New York financier and international petroleum bargainer, took occasion today, upon his return from Europe, to reply to reports current here and in New York as to his recent contract with the Mexican Government to buy 10,000,000 gallons of oil. The reports were that Davis' contract was endangered because of threatports were that Davis' contract was endangered because of threatened Government cancellation, due to his reported inability to carry out its terms.

It was Davis' first detailed statement of his negotiations with the Government, which have perturbed major oil companies whose American and British holdings, valued at $400.000,000.

$400,000,000, were expropriated

Davis explained the delay in clearance of three of his ships, as due to "routine requirements and lack of organization" on the part of Government dependencies charged with oil exports.

charged with oil exports.

Payments to Mexico.

Davis himself declared that 28 ships owned or controlled by him moved, since May 10, 2,408,960 barrels of oil, representing payment to the Government of cash and material to the amount of $2,508,190.

Since that date, including shipments in a contract for 10,000,000

Mexico has received a cash total of $1,087,359, including a payment of $50,000 made Wednesday. Davis says payments were made through the First National Bank of Boston, with the customary credit facili-

An equipment credit balance of $1,414,838 has been delivered to the Government, Davis says. He adds Government, Davis says. He adds that the oil moved so far has been delivered as follows: To New Orleans, 440,000 barrels; Scandinavia, 320,000 barrels; France, 240,000; Italy, 120,000; Poland, 90,000; England, 250,000, and 948,990 barrels, owned by Davis, to the Eurotank refineries at Hamburg, Germany.

As to present operations with Mexico, he said:

"The First National Bank of Boston is not financing purchases from Mexico. The Davis Co. is financing the bank, acting in accord with the usual letter of credit pracrefining.

Need to Modernize Plants.
"Before Mexico can produce marketable oil products to meet world requirements, it must completely modernize its present refin-ing facilities. This will cost approximately $6,000,000 and will take 12 months."

He said the Davis Co. was entering on a contract with the Mexican Government for financing, supervising and engineering the construction of such plants.

"During the balance of the year," he said, "we plan to move from Mexico, unless the unforeseen happens, crude oil of a net value to the Mexican Government in excess or $5,000,000, or which $5,000,000 worth will go to the United States.
"If Mexico accepts the construction, as planned, of new refineries, purchases of equipment from the United States will be made to a value of $4,000,000, if the manufacturers of equipment disparent the turers of equipment disregard the major oil companies' statement that such sales, made to the Davis Co., are an unfriendly act."

Davis denies the sale transaction with Japan, persistently reported but close observers of the Mexican petroleum situation say Mexico is now willing to deal with any buyer, and is negotiating with others than the Davis Co. for the sale of 11,000 tons of Diesel oil to Germany, pay-ment to be made in a barter for newsprint paper.

A contract with German interests is said also to be in the making for delivery of 450,000 barrels of Diesel oil in exchange for 25,000 tons of newsprint. The Ministry of Finance is reported to have sold two or three cargoes to Japan, but exchange difficulties handicapped operations. It is said Mexico is willing to undersell California sales to Japan, having in reserve the Poza Rica oil zone, with its 5,000,-000 barrels of crude oil.

The union men voted, 378 to 161, to go back to work. The vote was taken on a resolution, presented by Sentner, which recommended that the union "submit to the armed forces of the State."

MUNY COMMITTEE PROPOSES FEE CUTS FOR WINTER SPORTS J. S. AT

LOWERED COST AIDED SOFTBALL AND BASEBALL

Increase of 18 Teams in One Group, 54 in Other -Will Not Finance Trips for Champions.

By Harold Tuthill.

A recommendation was made this afternoon that the entry fee for Central Council committee of the Municipal Aahletic Association.

With one exception, corresponding cuts were made in toher winter sports. The reduction in socces for intermediates was from $20 to $12 and in the juniors from $10 to $5. The $10 fee for gorls' basket-ball was allowed to stand, but the entry fee for men's basketball was reduced from $35 to $20. A fee of $12 was established for an interme diate league, if there are enough teams interested to form such league.

Rugby football was given the same treatment as senior soccer the cut being from $45 to $25.

John Kaske was chairman of the committee. The members were Charles McBride, William Hell-mich, Father Bart Keaney and Tom

The recommendations of the committee will be presented to the council at its regular monthly meeting next Tuesday.

The reduction in fees is in line with a policy decided upon early last spring when the council voted, with only one member, a delegate-at-large, dissenting, to lower fees and to abolish trips for champlonship winners in all sports for one year, beginning with the spring

Carl O. Kamp, president of the council, was the instigator of the plan. He said it was a question of maintaining the entry fees and financing the trips, or lowering the design of the council to the cou fees to admit more teams and abolishing the trips for the champions.

The rule would not prevent an individual or a team from making a trip at his or its expense.

More Teams, Wider Interest. "We were confronted with a sit-uation which showed a steady de-cline in the number of teams in baseball, soccer and basketball," Kamp said. "We felt that if we could induce more teams to enter by lowering the fee we could cre-ate more interest, and ultimately raise the play-off gate receipts which also have shown a decline. The operation of the association is dent upon the fees and gate

"At the time I made the suggestion I advised the delegates to can vas their sponsors to see what they thought of it. The softball delegate got an almost unanimous response to the proposal to abolish trips in favor of lower entry fees. Even when the motion was reconsidered by the Council there were only two members of 18 opposed

It is too early to see all the effects of the ruling because only baseball and softball have been affected by it. There was no decrease in the 50 cents individual entry fee that the association gets from tennis tournaments, nor in the 25 cents that it gets from the Forest Park Golf Club for each of its members. Nor was there any change in the $10 fee for rowing clubs, nor the $20 fee for each horseshoe team.

An Immediate Increase. Baseball has shown an increase of 18 teams over last year. There are 114 teams entered at a cost of $1 apiece, as compared to 64 senior teams at $6 per team and 32 juniors at $3 apiece, paying a total of $480 last year.

Softball has increased the number of teams by 54. The revenue from 17 men's leagues and one girls' league, comprising 86 teams, each paying $15, was $1163.50 last year. This year there are 29 men's leagues, comprising 140 teams at $10, making a total of $1400. There are no muny girls' leagues this are no muny girls' leagues this

Trips Cost $2000, Leaving $882 Deficit Kamp said the last fiscal report, read at the annual meeting in January, showed that the association operated at a loss of $888.92 for the 1936-37 season, when baseball receipts were at the lowest ebb, $2020.75, and soccer profits sank to $113.06 based on receipts of $1549.70. About $2000 was spent on all trips during that period, while the aver-age cost annually for trophies and medals is $1131.71. In addition, the cost of the annual banquet given to the champions, is figured in the deficit of $888.92.

In some years more than $900 was spent to send a soccer team away, Kamp said. From 1934, when 36 teams were entered, soccer entries have declined successively to 28, 21 and 16. It remains to be seen whether the decrease in the $45 entry fee for senior soccer teams will increase the total number of teams entered.

President Don Barnes of the Browns is hesitating whether to spend $50,000 on a lighting plant or baseball players, on the theory that it is better to get a base-afterwards. Barnes, "there's no assurance that seven night games will keep us out of the red. Fans may not turn out for a tail-end team."

IN VIEW OF the experience of Brooklyn and Cincinnati, this fear seems almost ludicrous. Brooklyn, during its first year of operation (five games have been played) has had an average night attendance of about 31,000 per-

As pointed out in this column recently, over a four-year period Cincinnati, a much smaller population center than St. Louis, averaged 17,878 night attendance, as against an average daytime against an average caytime crowd of about 3000 previously. Up to this year the Reds, under night baseball conditions, fin-ished no better than fifth. Once they finished sixth and last year finished eighth, comparing with the Browns' record.

In the year when Cincinnati was last it averaged nearly 16,000 per game. The first year of the floodlights an average of 18,000 was attained, despite one bad weather game when only 8000 persons were present. The team was in sixth place that season

The Other Side.

ON THE FACE of facts it appears that the Reds, for example gained through night games about 110,000 paid admissions. Even estimating the average at as low as 70 cents a head, that still adds $77,000 to the club's bankroll—and that's not to be sneezed at.

The difference in the cost between day and night baseball can't be much more than the cost of the lights and a few trifles.

"But," objects President Barnes,
"St. Louis is not like Brooklyn.
With our last-place team we might expect a good opening night game, when all the curious fans would turn out. Then we'd slump back to 8000 or so and that would not benefit us enough to help us amortize the plant in the required 10 years.

"It's all right in Brooklyn
where they have a population of millions to draw upon. Brooklyn attracts good crowds in day time. At night naturally it improves greatly. But in our city, with the Browns having just a cost might hurt our chance to buy useful players."

"Okay With Us"-Breadon.

THE CARDINALS are on the affirmative side of the night game situation. "We'll go along with the Browns if they want the lights. We'll put up our $50,000 or so and we think it will be worth while.

"However, Mr. Barnes and his associates are right in consider-ing all angles. It's their problem and it may be hard for them to decide.

"We've got two of the light towers already built. That's due to the fact that they were incorporated in the scoreboard when we constructed that at a cost of $35,000 this spring. A lighting plant would still cost us about $100,000 additional.

That One-Year Clause

THE AMERICAN LEAGUE, hostile-minded for years, as far as night games are concerned, re-lented a trifle last season. Club owners voted permission for the St. Louis club to play seven night games. The permit was for one year only. Now that is taken by the Browns as an argument against putting in a lighting sys-

"That one-year permit doesn't make sense," argued Barnes. "We spend $150,000 on a lighting plant which can be wiped up in one year should the league revoke its permit."

That, however, is a purely imaginary objection. In a long-distance conversation with President Will Harridge, the American League head said:

"That one-year clause was not intended as a threat of yecall. In fact, the National League clubs also are operating under a one-year permit. This must be renewed annually. The idea is to leave the final control of night games in the hands of the league. But no move to wreck an invest-ment of $150,000 would be made in either organization." "Are any American League clubs other than the Browns contemplating night games?" Har-ridge was asked.

"Not as yet," was the reply.

"Cleveland and Philadelphia were interested but have not made any recent requests for next year. The American League idea is to extend the permission only to such teams as are in financial distress, to give them a chance to turn red ink into black." Evidently, then, the American games as a revenue producer than do the officials of the Browns. "There has been strong hostility on the part of some American club owners to night base-ball," commented Harridge. "That also was and is the case with regard to radio broadcasts of baseball games. However, the revenue from the broadcasts

Attendance Growing.

As FAR AS the American League As FAR As the American League is concerned, there is not much worry about night baseball schedules, with most clubs. Asked about the daylight attendance so far this year, Harridge replied:
"It's ahead of last year's business, so far, although there has been some shrinkage of the mar-gin of increase in recent weeks. However, last year we had a bumper crop and that we have been able to show a gain over that is really remarkable."

"How about the falling off in batting by many American League high average men?" was another query. "Out of 17 leaders of last year, men ranging from .314 averages up, all but one

A. Wolf, executive director of the Neighborhood Association and Neighborhood Gardens, said in a speech before the Kiwanis Club vesterday. Club yesterday.

"St. Louis needs slum clearance because its slum areas are among the worst in the country," Wolf said, "It needs rehabilitation because unless property values can be stabilized, the steady flight to the county will spell ruin to the city. During the past 20 years, 100,000 persons have moved out of the area east of Jefferson avenue."

St. Louis should obtain not only Federal but private aid in financing the projects, Wolf said. He cited Neighborhood Gardens, a private project, as an example of what pri-vate capital can do. "No apartment house in the city or county has a smaller annual rent loss, and the project now pays $13,000 in taxes, whereas three years ago the un-improved property paid less than $1000," he said.

Although Alaska has only six delegates to the Democratic convention, they are important because they are the first selected. In his and 1932 as a political salesman for Franklin D. Roosevelt, he recounted with elation how he had obtained control of the Alaska delegation in 1932.

"The date of Jan. 23 (1932) is important," he wrote. They were the first delegates actually pledged to his candidacy. This had been made possible by our letters to influential party leaders

PARIS, Aug. 5.-Open bank bac carat—in which bets are unlimited —has moved higher into the stratosphere of big stakes with the elimination of the little gambler from the game by a French Gov-ernment ruling. A betting mini-mum of 1000 francs (about $27.60) has been established.

A simultaneous ruling served to transfer some of the winnings of the 15 French casinos into the pocket of the Government. With this summer's gambling receipts estimated at 300,000,000 francs ($8,-286,000), compared to 182,000,000 ($5,026,840) last year, the Finance Ministry levied a tax of fourtenths of 1 per cent on bankers baccarat winnings.

velopment in the debate over providing adequate medical care for all the people is the Department of should bring victory in such an election. Justice's announcement that it will seek a grand jury investigation in the District of Columbia into the activities of organized medicine. The department was convinced by its own inquiry, says Thurman Arnold. Assistant Attorney-General, that violations of the anti-trust laws had occurred.

A workers' health co-operative, similar to many that have sprung up in recent years all over the country, is the center of the dispute. Members of these groups pay dues, in return for which they receive medical care when needed from physicians retained by the organization. Orthodox medical organizations have opposed such groups virtually wherever they have appeared.

In Washington, it is alleged, they attempted to stop operation of the co-operative by threatening its staff physicians, and even doctors who consulted with them, with expulsion from the District Medical Society. Group physicians were barred from practice in Washington hospitals, it is charged. Mr. Arnold views such tactics as "attempts on the part of one group of physicians to prevent qualified doctors from carrying on their calling."

Whether or not actual violations of the anti-trust laws occurred, there is no disputing the fact that the actions of organized medicine—the American Medical-Association and most of the state and local socie ties-in opposing various humanitarian health plans have on all too many occasions savored of efforts to safeguard a monopoly for their members.

A ferment for better and more widespread health services is stirring among the people, as well as among many forward-looking members of the profession. A committee of 430 members, since grown to more than 1000, last fall launched a formidable "revolt" to liberalize the attitude of the American willing to wink at fraud rather than pay Medical Association. A SPECIAL ELECTION FOR THE COUNTY COURTHOUSE.

Defeat of the proposed $850,000 bond issue for a new St. Louis County Courthouse at Tuesday's election is extremely regrettable. TENNESSEE'S "GUTTER POLITICS" PRIMARY.

The ticket sponsored by Ed Crump, political bos of Memphis, and backed by a State W P A brazenly transformed into a vote-getting machine, has won in the Democratic primary in Tennessee. The faction headed by Gov. Gordon Browning marshaled and mulcted State employes in a feverish counter-attack but the strength of the Federal vote-collectors, together with the huge majority Crump delivered in Memphis, was too much for them.

After hearing the report of agents sent to Tennessee to investigate charges of pressure on jobhold rs, Senator Morris Sheppard, chairman of the Senate Committee on Campaign Expenditures, said:

Apparently every scheme and questionable device that can be used in a political contest to raise funds to influence votes and control an election result is in full swing. . . . The committee is of the opinion that the evidence committee is of the opinion that the evidence before it with respect to assessments of Federal employes by one group in the Democratic pri-mary contest for United States Senator, and of State employes by the other group, points sharply toward an election contest in the United States Senate regardless of which group's candidate triumphs.

Yet Crump is Democratic National Committeeman for Tennessee, just as the political bosses of Kansas City, Jersey City and other cities represent their states on the national committee, and great pressure will be brought to bear within the party to quiet a scandal which some members of the Sheppard committee have termed as bad in the use of money and coercive methods as those in Illinois and Pennsylvania in 1926.

Nothing better could happen in the situation than for the Senate to forget party ties and refuse to seat men nominated and elected under conditions such as have been proved to exist in Tennessee. As things are going now, the free, frank use of public funds to influence voters is a deadly threat to the democratic form of government.

As to the immediate results of the primary, the defeat of Senator George L. Berry will be widely applauded. This is the man who sought to collect $5,000,000 for claims which he acquired to marble lands in the area which the T V A flooded with its dams. Gov. Browning appointed Berry Senator in the first place because of pressure brought by the administration, which was seeking a man who could be counted on to vote for the court-packing plan. The administration caught a tartar.

As regards Gov. Browning himself, the issues were complicated. He has refunded Tennessee's State debt at a large saving annually. He has placed the State on a pay-as-you-go basis and put the schools on an adequate financial footing. But, elected two years ago as a Crump man, he broke with the boss, not on principle but in a squabble over spoils. In fighting Crump, he used dictatorial methods, including enactment of a law, later voided by the Supreme Court, depriving Memphis voters of a large share of their proportionate strength in State affairs.

As Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has remarked, the primary was a case of "gutter politics" on both sides. How long will such perversion of the election machinery as has been shown to exist in the Tennessee and Kentucky primaries be allowed to go on?

THE TWO BOSSES EXPLAIN.

On the morning after the day before, Boss Pender gast and Boss Dickmann recovered sufficiently to describe what hit them. Pendergast said that Republicans who entered the Democratic primary nominated Douglas, and the Mayor said: "We would have beaten Sam Priest if the Republicans had stayed out of the fight."

As alibis go, this one isn't so bad. In orthodox political circles, it is not considered cricket for the members of one party to participate in another's primary. The primary, according to this theory, is strictly a family party, barred to gate-crashers, at which the bosses pick the men for the public to vote on in November. For outsiders to interfere is shockingly bad taste, like using the wrong fork or

A consoling thought, and who would deny it to Tuesday's casualties?

THE MAN WHO DID IT.

Madison County residents who thought that Coroner W. W. Billings' gambling cleanup vow was just another empty threat can now indulge in the luxury of a second thought. Something has happened which is unprecedented in recent Madison County gambling history. Hyde Park, John Soy's dice dive at Venice, has closed for reasons other than depressed economic conditions. Heretofore, Hyde Park has stayed open as long as there were comers with money. This time the closing was due to the realization that in its Coroner, however the Sheriff and State's Attorney might blink their sworn duties, Madison County has at least one official who means to see that the law is enforced.

The big craps game at Hyde Park is only one of the gambling rackets which has ceased operations in Madison County. Various handbook shops have closed. The "bank night" scheme of the movie theaters is done for. Slot machines and pinball machines are under the ban. So too are the lotto games, which had reached the proportions of a large-scale industry, tapping the meager resources of many a family which needs its income for the necessities of life. Today Madison County enjoys s freedom from organized and professionalized gambling rackets such as it has not known for years Dr. Billings is the man to thank.

Who Would Win an Air War in Europe?

Fascist Powers have greater aviation forces than democracies, says former Air Minister of France, and would triumph in a short war; if conflict is prolonged, he adds, Franco-British bloc would be victorious; sees Czech independence as vital key to defense; urges firm stand so potential aggressors will not dare hazard of quick victory.

Pierre Cot, Former French Minister of Aviation, in the Pariser Tageszeitung, German Emigre Daily; Reprinted From Living Age.

IR power plays such an important role A in modern war that it is of moment to try to discover who would have the ad-vantage if war should break out in Europe

As far as existing air forces are concerned, Germany, Austria and Italy are somewhat ahead of the democratic councompletely if the democratic countries could count on the support of the Polish, or on fleet. Russian or Polish intervention on the side of the Western democracies would

It cannot be denied that the production of war industries in Germany and Italy at present exceeds that of France, Britain, Poland and Czechoslovakia, mainly because the industries in Germany and Italy are already on what is virtually a wartime basis. In contrast to the general belief, time works to the advantage of the totalitarian states in peacetime. They are rearming at a much more rapid pace than the democracies. Here, again, the intervention of Russia, with her vast armament industry, would be of decisive significance. Yet even if Russia did not intervene, the situation would change completely upon the outbreak of war. The time factor would now work against the democracies would at once increase the pace of their production, and because Germany and Italy would be cut off from further supplies of many raw materials that are essary in the manufacture of arms and munitions. The totalitarian states can overcome this serious handicap only by isolating or neutralizing Czechoslovakia, thereby in suring for themselves important sources of surply in Central Europe.

What are the strategic prospects of the European Powers in regard to war in the air? The totalitarian states have recently ired extremely important bases on Spar ish territory. By means of air and naval es based on the Balearic Islands, Spanish Morocco, on the Canary Islands and on the Spanish coast, they are in a position to sever France's communications with North Africa and to dominate the Mediterranean for a long time to come. In addition to this tremendous strategic advantage, there is anther—the vulnerability of Paris and London to attack from the air. These two cities will be very difficult to defend because of

Notwithstanding the strategic advantages ed by the totalitarian states, the only kind of war which they can hope to win is a lightning-like, short one. In such a war, of course, every weapon will be utilized and, above all, those calculated to demoralize the enemy. There is every reason to believe the Germans and the Italians would combine air raids on London and Paris with operations in the Mediterranean and in North Africa.

How can the democratic countries meet nace and strike back? The key to their defense, strategically speaking, is Czechoslovakia. Germany possesses an exlery is the best in the world. But simultaneous attacks launched from French and Czechoslovak airdromes, shuttling back and forth, can reach and paralyze all the German industrial centers. Since Germany would find the sea lanes closed by the British Navy and could no longer import war materials, she would soon be checkmated.

Western Powers could achieve even more were they to stake their faith not only sia's air force is a tremendous power, and the German leaders know it. Russian attacks from the air, based upon Czechoslo-vakia, could inflict terrible injury on the answer to air raids on Paris and London.

The strategic advantages which the totalitarian states have gained in Spain would be useful only in a brief war, for the Mediterranean would be soon closed to all bel-

At the start, France would be tremendo ly handicapped, but the closing of the Mediterranean would soon have serious effects ample, would find itself in a perilous situation, for it is divided into four parts: one is in Ethiopia, another in Tripoli, the third in Spain and the fourth at home. Mussolini forces and war materials overseas. In the event of war, he could neither recall nor replenish these forces and this material.

What conclusions may be drawn from this hasty survey? From the point of view of air power, the totalitarian states can consider a short war only, since their strength will rapidly become exhausted. I do not share the belief that Germany will first try to paralyze Czechoslovakia, for I believe such an attempt would result in a longdrawn war that would be fatal to Germany

I am convinced Germany will attack Czechoslovakia only if France and Britain give her to understand that such an attack can be made without provoking a general conflict. It is my opinion that, supported by Italy, she would first attempt to destroy her arch-enemy, France, for "delenda Gallia" (Gaul must be destroyed) is the theme to which Hitler constantly recurs in "Mein Kampf." With France out of the way, Germany would have complete freedom of Mediterranean basin to her Italian ally.

The democratic countries cannot lose a ong war-provided Czechoslovakia remains intact and blocks Germany's access to the oil of Rumania and the granaries of Eastern Europe. The totalitarian states are in no position today to wage a long war, and their military leaders know this only too well. If we desire to preserve and to guarantee peace, then we must not let them get the impression that a short war is possible. And this is the responsibility of the British, the French and the Russians.

The democratic Powers could have stopped the attack on Ethiopia at an early stage, without grave risk. They could easily have curbed the Spanish war at the very beginning, before Mussolini staked his prestige and Italy's honor on a rebel victory. They can still bring about a peaceful solu-tion of the Czechoslovak problem by being

Youth's New Deal Books in the News

M AYBE you don't know what it's like to come home and have everyone looking at you and you know they're thinking, even if they don't say it, 'He didn't find a job.' It gets terrible. You don't want to ome home. But a guy's got to eat and sleep, I tell you, the first time I walked in the door with a pay check, I was somebody!"

The narrator was one of the thousand f National Youth Administration workers whom Ernest K. and Betty Lindley saw in their cross-country inspection early this year of one of the least publicized but most ocially valuable of the unemployment relief between a failure and a "somebody" was N Y A check in payment for an honest, productive job. The Lindleys describe such cases in "A New Deal for Youth." (The Viking Press, New York).

This illuminating book originated in the desire of the national advisory council of the N Y A for an independent survey of N Y A activities. One of the writers served for a time as consultant for that purpose, but Mr. and Mrs. Lindley from the outset of their 300-page book are much more than mere inspectors. They find an agency about which the nation as a whole has heard but little, hard at work with limited resour on the problem of salvaging boys and girls from destructive unemployment. If they write an indorsement rather than a critical appraisal, the fair thing is to ask: Who rouldn't, with the same experience?

From the Atlantic seaboard to the Northrest N Y A's panorama runs. More than 475,000 youths keeping themselves in high chool or college, or at work on a virtually imitless number of useful projects and tasks serving lunches to under-nourished pupils Sedalia, Mo., helping Robert Moses develour lines on Kansas dust-bowl pasture land, op New York's park system, running o building a club for under-privileged boys in Pawtucket, R. cost which is itself remarkable for its relative smallness. For under the NYA program, the Lindleys found, the Federal of keeping a youth in high school is about C C C camp. The annual N Y A outlay is less than the cost of one battleship.

Great as is the monetary worth of the thousands of public improvements and the expanded public services made possible by he NY A, it is not these which are chiefly Important, in the opinion of Ernest and Betty Lindley. To be rated highest is "the incalculable return to the nation in the conservation and improvement of its huma ssets." Their conclusion is that N Y A while it has not solved the basic problems of depressed youth, has demonstrated the sagerness of youth to shoulder their share of the world's responsibilities.

The book is dedicated to Mrs. Franklin osevelt, "because in mining towns, is beet-sugar villages, in mountain backwashes, in city slums, on isolated farms, in high schools, in colleges and in universities wherever we have been—youth speak of he as their friend." Perhaps Mrs. Roosevelt is away from Washington so much b the wide country is her home. I D.

Dewey expressed his pleasure in getting rid of the matter, saying there had been so many defense motions that he had been forced to spend most of his time in court, to the detriment of preparing his case. Although he warned the District Attorney, in dismissing the order, that the court would entertain a motion for postponement if the prosecution named any public officials at the trial other than those listed in the bill, Justice Pecors ruled that he would not grant a motion to prevent Dewey from using the information in the bill at the trial because it might hinder the cause of justice by preventing the inclusion of other important

LLERGY, or hypersensitiveness, which we have been discussing this week in connection with hay fever, may have many peculiar anifestations. Often puzzling are the skin eruptions that can con

the pit especially.

"Dress dermatitis" is an entity that should be easily recognized because it consists in an eruption, usually from a dye in the dress, that occurs in sharply localized parts of the skin-places where the dress most often touches and where perspiration may dissolve the dye. These places are around the armpits, the fold of the arms, and the neck. The eruption may extend over the chest, but only to the line where the underclothes come to protect the skin. The eruption has all the features of eczema-an itching, weeping, crusting inflammation.

The eruption around the armpits is most characteristic-it affects the sides and periphery of the armpits, not the pit. This is markedly different from other skin diseases which affect the top of

WHILE THE material—silk or wool—of the dress is sometimes responsible, it is usually the dye. This is proved by patch tests—when the dye is laid directly on the skin and covered with adhesive plaster, and left there an hour, the characteristic eruption appears on that spot Blue dresses are most often incriminated, although this is not absolute and in one patient a blue, a black and a green dress all produced the Shoe dermatitis is another form of clothing sensitiveness. People with this have an eruption that resembles athlete's foot. And as a matter of fact, many of them are treated for a long time for athlete's foot, until the true cause is discovered. The eruption is likely to be on the side and sole of the foot. The leather, the linings and brown and black shoe polish have all been found responsible as the cause. One man was found who was sensitive, as shown by the patch test, to leather from 17 different shoes. He has to wear canvas foot covering.

SOCK DERMATITIS also occurs, and should be easy to spot because the distribution of the rash is exactly that of contact with the sock. Dyes, rather than the material of which the sock is made, are the cause, and the cure, logically enough, is to wear white socks.

Foreign Visitor -:- By Emily Post

AM expecting a relative to visit me. This will be his first trip to this country, and consequently the first time he is meeting some of his American-born relatives. I am wondering what would be the best way to arrange for their meeting. Ordinarily I would have thought a dinner, or a gathering of some kind at our house to which all would be invited, but this may be out of order since the visitor is young as compared with all these others, or would it be considered more suitable for me to take him to their houses? I wouldn't be HERE'S a good deal more to so concerned if it weren't for the fact that the visitor is a foreigner, and foreign-born people are less casual about conventions than we here in America have become.

The when she can stroke the pelt of a sleék, lustrous fur coat, or throw a shimmering silvery scarf around her neck and say casually. "I think I'll take it." And the total retail sales—$550,000,000 in 1937—certainly indicate that mass prought furs within the reach of the many.

There a large number of women, however, who, knowing their own inability to judge furs, hesitate to buy a fur coat for fear of being taken advantage of, or, in plain language, getting a "lemon."

The fur business has been called a skin game in other than the facetious sense, and undoubtedly there is more false information circulated about furs than any other article of wearing apparel. One hears fantatic tales of expensive garments that faded or split or fell apart in a week, steries of unscruptious merchants who will do anything to merchants who will do anything to make a sale and then refuse to make a sale and then refuse to make adjustments.

The purchase of a fur coat is a major moment in any woman's life, so if you are among the many who are afraid to run the risk of a possible bad investment—for a fur coat is more of an investment than coat is more of an investment of the part of the coat—the following questions and answers might help you. The questions are due to the curiosity of the writer. The answers come to the composity of the writer. The answers come to the composity of the writer. ty of the writer. The answers come from some of St. Louis' foremost authorities on fur, the buyers and nerchandise managers of furriers, lepartment stores and women's

Is a fur coat a practical investment in St. Louis?

Yes, indeed, they all told me. "I don't see how any woman can get along without a fur coat," one woman said. "When it gets cold woman said. "When it gets cold that here the cold is so penetrating that we feel it really more than people in cold climates in the Northwest. Maybe," she laughed, "that's be-cause of the contrast to our hot summers." And certainly the cold, slushy winters we experience do call for warm clothing.

"Yes, any woman can wear a fur soat," one buyer said, "but not every woman can wear every fur coat. The stout, shorter woman should choose one of the flat furs, g-haired fur that would tend long-haired fur that would tend to make her look larger."

What advice would you give a woman who is contemplating buying her first fur coat?

Every fur authority interviewed was quick to mention this paramount consideration in buying a fur coat, "Go to a reliable store and put yourself into their hands."

For no woman, unless she has made an exhaustive study of the subject, can judge a fur coat by its outward appearance, or know

Christopher Takes Camilla Home From the Party-He Kisses Her and Tells Her How Much He Has Longed to Be With Her.

CHAPTER ELEVEN.

AMILLA and Chris left the hotel together, blithely ignoring poss ble comment. It had been the highest moment of her life when he deliberately selected her to be his partner for the grand march, making everything which had happened since then seem logical.

She had waited a long time for him to show his preference, but the delay made her present triumph sweeter. No pretense could conceal the way he felt about her. She would not believe it now, no matter what he said.

Camilla sat beside him in the front seat of his car as she had done in St. Louis, letting happiness wash over her in waves. The night, darkly, sweetly mysterious, was like the background of a dream. But nothing he could possibly do or say would have seemed strange to her.

With the innocence of inexperience, she made no attempt to free herself returning his kisses as joyously as they were given. And because she cared so much she did not realize until afterward that on his part no word of love was spoken.
